

Orang Utans

Fill in the blanks with the words in the box.

Orang Utans are the world's largest _____ in the forest. The adult male weighs as much as 108.9kg but is shorter than the average man. Their diet consists of fruits, leaves, barks, shoots, stems and flowers.

Today, the Orang Utan is found in Borneo, Sumatra and Malaysia. The Borneo species of Orang Utans are _____. The Borneo population is estimated to be about 50,000 in the wild.

The biggest _____ to the Orang Utan is _____ loss due to _____, _____, _____ and forest fires. Baby Orang Utans are also at risk from _____ who sell them as pets.

In Malaysia, there are Orang Utans _____ areas in Semenggoh, Sarawak and Sepilok near Sandakan in Sabah. According to WWF-Malaysia, there are fewer than 30,000 Orang Utans in the _____ today.

tree-dwellers highly endangered threat wild
habitat logging mining development poachers conservation

Orang Utans

Fill in the blanks with the words in the box.

Orang Utans are the world's largest tree-dwellers in the forest. The adult male weighs as much as 108.9kg but is shorter than the average man. Their diet consists of fruits, leaves, barks, shoots, stems and flowers.

Today, the Orang Utan is found in Borneo, Sumatra and Malaysia. The Borneo species of Orang Utans are highly endangered. The Borneo population is estimated to be about 50,000 in the wild.

The biggest threat to the Orang Utan is habitat loss due to logging, mining, development and forest fires. Baby Orang Utans are also at risk from poachers who sell them as pets.

In Malaysia, there are Orang Utans conservation areas in Semenggoh, Sarawak and Sepilok near Sandakan in Sabah. According to WWF-Malaysia, there are fewer than 30,000 Orang Utans in the wild today.

tree-dwellers highly endangered threat wild
habitat logging mining
development poachers conservation